This growth is evident in increased teacher clarity, which has led to greater student engagement and a heightened awareness of their own learning. Additionally, students are benefiting from more opportunities to engage in discussions, fostering the development of their reasoning and oral language skills. February Next Steps/Need While progress is evident, differentiation and the identification of effective ways to support and scaffold learning remain areas of challenge. Moving forward, we will focus on addressing these challenges to ensure all students receive the targeted support they need to succeed.    Apr   April Lessons Learned We are gaining proficiency in iReady implementation, data collection, and data analysis, using the program's resources to plan and implement interventions based on individual student needs. We are setting student goals, ensuring students have clear targets to strive toward. About 80% of our students are engaging in 50 minutes of iReady time per subject area per week. We've also seen increases in the implementation of GLAD and Three-Reads strategies. The integration of learning

While we continue to refine and embed these practices, we've made strides in aligning instruction with these elements to maintain focus and drive student success. Awareness around school ratings and SBAC preparation has grown, with focus on students who are close to proficiency, as indicated by the iReady mid-year diagnostic. Teachers are actively using this data to provide targeted support and refine instruction. April Next Steps/Need Increase the frequency and depth of vertical collaboration sessions to refine best practices for differentiation and scaffolding while also enhancing the planning and implementation of clear learning targets, learning intentions, and success criteria in all lessons. Enhance SBAC preparation strategies by providing more targeted review sessions for students close to proficiency, and integrating formative assessments aligned with SBAC standards to ensure continuous progress toward proficiency. Increase opportunities for peer-to-peer collaboration and sharing of effective teaching practices during PLCs, with a specific focus on aligning instructional practices with learning targets and success criteria to foster continued professional growth and improve instructional consistency. June June Lessons Learned June Next Steps/Need

Regular PLC meetings at both the grade level and whole school have fostered a culture of support and close collaboration among teachers. Every team is cohesive, with no exceptions, which has greatly contributed to our positive school environment. February Next Steps/Need To build on this progress, we will focus on enhancing accountability by implementing a PLC reflection form. This will help ensure consistent reflection and continuous improvement in our collaborative practices. Apr April Lessons Learned Our school has made steady progress toward cultivating a positive and collaborative adult learning culture. This year, we prioritized reducing staff-reported work stress levels by improving access to planning time and strengthening targeted supports for students in our FRL, IEP, and EL subgroups. Through the development of structured PLC practices, anchored in shared norms, growing collaboration, and open communication, we've seen increased teacher voice and a more unified approach to meeting diverse student needs. Staff have been empowered to share resources, co-plan, and engage in solution-oriented dialogue, fostering a stronger sense of community and professional trust. Efforts to reduce stress and workload have included revisiting expectations, recognizing contributions, and encouraging open dialogue around teacher well-being. Restorative practices have been introduced to help maintain positive team dynamics and address conflicts constructively. April Next Steps/Need Looking ahead, we recognize the importance of continuing to strengthen our collaborative systems. Finalizing and consistently using PLC accountability templates remains a key next step. In addition, we see the need for increased vertical alignment and more structured time for collaboration across grade levels. We also plan to foster deeper collaboration between Special Education, EL, and Speech staff with general education teachers to ensure comprehensive support for all learners. June June Lessons Learned June Next Steps/Need

Goal 3: Connectedness

Aligns with District Priority

Annual Performance Objective 1: By the end of the 2024-25 school year, decrease chronic absenteeism by 8% among students, with a specific focus on FRL, IEP, and EL subgroups, by implementing targeted support initiatives. These initiatives aim to reinforce a positive and inclusive school climate, address barriers to attendance, and ensure that all students, particularly those in vulnerable subgroups, can access a supportive and consistent learning environment.

Throughout this process, we have learned that persistence, along with collaboration among administrators, office staff, and classroom teachers, is essential to the success of ensuring students are present and engaged. February Next Steps/Need To further strengthen our efforts, we will focus on being more intentional with home visits, specifically targeting families with whom we need to build stronger relationships. This will help address attendance concerns more effectively and foster deeper family engagement. Apr  April Lessons Learned Our school has made notable strides in reducing chronic absenteeism by implementing a variety of strategies. Daily monitoring of attendance by administration and school counselor, consistent parent outreach, improved accuracy in absence coding, and classroom-level attendance incentives have contributed to these gains. Celebrations like our "Whale of the Week" attendance shoutouts have helped motivate students. We also partnered with Trustee Colleen Westlake, who generously rewards the grade level with the highest monthly attendance percentage with donuts. We have collaborated closely with our reengagement attendance officer to follow up with students and families showing

Additionally, we've deepened our commitment to family engagement through community-building events. Parent Teacher Home Visits, the Fall Festival, Bingo Night, and our school-wide Talent Show have all encouraged parent involvement and helped build trust between families and the school. April Next Steps/Need As we look ahead, we recognize that continued progress will require us to better understand the underlying causes of student absences. Next steps may include exploring parent and student feedback to identify root causes, expanding our wraparound supports, and increasing partnerships with community organizations that can assist families facing attendance barriers. We are also considering parent-focused incentives, such as a quarterly drawing for a gift basket awarded to a parent who demonstrates growth in effort and consistency in bringing their child to school. June June Lessons Learned June Next Steps/Need
