CELL PHONES: Cell phones have become a huge distraction in education. Students are frequently off task and on their phones. They have a negative effect on the classroom environment. It is difficult to compete with the latest funny YouTube video, music, or texts from a friend. Students also take pictures of completed homework, assignments, and tests, which they then share, so cheating and plagiarism has increase. As a result, McQueen teachers have been instructed to confiscate any cell phones or earphones that are visible during class time. Students must have their electronic devices turned off and put away during class time. There may be times during class that phones may be used for educational purposes, but it will be at my discretion. Please sign below to acknowledge that you have read and understood McQueen’s technology policy.
